SMART Community Exchange to Host SMART Trade Missions in the United States

March 20, 2017, Alpharetta, GA – SMART Community Exchange - To demonstrate the commitment to international SMART Trade, the SMART Community Exchange (SCE) will host international delegations in the U.S., to encourage, promote, and facilitate bilateral SMART trade and investment.

These trade missions will bring together SMART Leaders in Business, Finance, and Government, to share and learn best practice and lessons learned from each other. The agenda will include Bilateral Trade, Foreign Direct Investment, Workforce Training and Development, and Education.

"We understand that SMART growth is the way to stimulate economic growth and create 21st century jobs. SMART Trade will enhance regional economic development programs, workforce training and development programs, research and development programs, and education programs. United States offers great SMART market potential for SMART companies seeking to locate their business in the U.S. market or expand their operations and sales in the U.S. market, and for Foreign investors seeking to invest in the U.S. ", Minna LeVine, Founder, SMART Community Exchange (SCE).

North America, led by the U.S., will possibly expand at a CAGR of 14.5% over 2016-2026, reaching a value worth US $750 Bn. The SMART market is currently driven by public-private partnerships, backed by favorable government initiatives. Urbanization will continue to popularize the concept of SMART communities in the U.S.

"Companies from around the world want to enter the SMART American markets, but most often do not have the resources to locate their business in the U.S. They work through their own government agencies up to a point. Regional Economic Development Agencies, Chambers of Commerce, Academic and Research Institutions, Incubators, and other Soft-Landing Service Providers across the U.S., stand ready to assist SMART solution providers and investors to enter the U.S. market", Tana Torrano, Founder, SMART Community Exchange (SCE).

SMART Leaders from around the world are invited to join SMART Trade Missions to meet their U.S. peers from companies, R&D Institutions, Universities, Authorities, Economic Development Agencies, Chambers of Commerce, and other Trade Organizations standing by to assist foreign companies and investors in setting up their offices, operations, and facilities in the U.S.

SMART Trade Missions will serve the SMART economic development needs of Regional Economic Development Agencies, Public and Private sector Economic Development Alliances, State and National Agencies, NGOs, Communities, and other service organizations, to develop and implement SMART Community projects to attract new investments and jobs to the region where SMART delegations visit.
